

COMMUNITY AND EDUCATION IN A RENASCENT MYANMAR: PATHWAYS AND PROMISES

Paul Dass, SJ, Director, St. Aloysius Gonzaga, Institute of Higher Studies
Rosemarie Hunter, PhD, Associate Professor, University of Utah College of Social Work

November 15, 2017

5:30 pm – 7:30 pm

Okazaki Community Meeting Room (155-A)

In the context of a changing Myanmar today, the rebuilding of the country after five decades of military rule places education – particularly an education that is skilled for and sensitive to social needs and challenges – at the forefront of national recovery. This presentation will focus on an experimentation with such a form of education through the partnership between the University of Utah College of Social Work and St. Aloysius Gonzaga Institute of Higher Studies. The final goal of the partnership is the formation of a new generation of educators who will be equally effective as agents of social change for a new and future Myanmar.

Light refreshments
2 NASW-endorsed CEUs (pending)
Free registration requested:
<https://umarket.utah.edu/um2/csw>

